If you are not satisfied with the ordered items, in accordance with the Consumer Protection Act you have the right to inform the company within thirty days of receiving the goods (by email, by phone, or by regular mail using this form) that you are withdrawing from the contract. In accordance with the law, you are not required to state the reason for withdrawing from the contract, although at Mint Sports we warmly recommend that you do so. We would like to correct any possible mistakes or shortcomings. You must return the products together with this completed form no later than thirty days after withdrawing from the contract. The products must be unused and undamaged, except in cases where the damage was not caused by the consumer. The only cost borne by the consumer when returning the goods is the cost of the direct return shipment. The purchase price for the returned items will be refunded to your bank account, returned to your credit card, sent via postal money order, or - by agreement - credited toward your next purchase. The money will be refunded no later than 14 days after we receive the notice of withdrawal from the purchase. However, we will withhold the refund if we do not receive the returned goods within the prescribed period or proof from the buyer that the shipment has been returned.
